A Challenging Year

During an unprecedented school year, students and school staff experienced and overcame many new obstacles. School staff rose to the occasion and supported students, families and one another to a whole new level.

Many ELPS staff members participated in committees and planning sessions to increase supports and improve the school experience for our students. The groundwork has been laid, and we are excited to move this work forward next school year.

ELPS Preview of 2022-23

Brighter Days

As we look forward to the fall, we have identified many exciting new initiatives and training opportunities for the 2022-23 school year. Many of your colleagues have worked this year to develop new frameworks and plans for rolling out these new plans.

New this coming school year will be the use of seven school days for professional learning and collaboration! We will utilize this time to systematically and carefully roll out new curriculum, systems and committee work while being thoughtful of staff time and workload.
