

Marble Equity Team

Suggested Relevant Social Media

Twitter

- Deray McKesson (@deray) – Always on the front lines. His honesty and fearlessness are inspiring.
- Colorlines (@colorlines) – Investigative reporting about race, and how identity impacts our everyday lives.
- Goldie Taylor (@goldietaylor) – Media insider with a strong voice for the marginalized.
- Black Youth Project (@byp_100) – Black youth-based activist organization focused on creating justice and freedom for black people everywhere.
- For Harriet (@ForHarriet) – Consistently celebrating black womanhood in every way possible.
- Black Lives Matter (@blklivesmatter) – A 24/7 hub for information and insight about the #BlackLivesMatter movement.
- Marc Lamont Hill (@marclamonthill) – Scholar, activist, public intellectual, and a frequent political commentator.
- Netta (@Nettaaaaaaaa) – Activist and truth teller.
- Yamiche Alcindor (@Yamiche) – Breaking news reporter with a focus on race and social issues.
- Ava DuVernay (@AVAETC) – Award-winning director and screenwriter with a deep commitment to making sure diverse voices are heard and amplified in the media.
- Diane Guerrero (@dianeguerrero_) – A dedicated activist for Latinx issues. Advocated for the creation of a Latino History Museum.
- Prisca Dorcas Mojica Rodriguez (@priscadorcas) – Founder of Latina Rebels, a writer, storyteller, and public speaker.
- Maria Hinojosa (@maria_hinojosa) – A Mexican-American journalist and radio host who dedicates her platforms to adversity faced by Latinx people in America.
- Juliana Britto (@JulianaBrittoS) – A Brazilian- American writer, senior editor at Feministing, and senior campaigner at Change.org.
- Befekadu Hailu aka Befekadu Hailu (@befeqe) – An award-winning Ethiopian writer, activist and blogger who has been imprisoned solely for exercising his right to freedom of expression.
- Hend Amry (@LibyaLiberty) – Libyan-American that challenges issues such as racism, Islamophobia or inequality.
-

Facebook

- Latina Rebels – An online activist group run by five Latinx women.
- Xicanisma (aka Chicana Feminism) – An inclusive current politics' focused platform on marginalized groups such as women, the LGBTQ community, and people of color.

Instagram

- The Afro Latin Diaspora - Uses their platform to draw attention to the unique experiences, feelings, and narratives of women who are both black and Latina.

- Kat Blaque (@kat_blaque) – A feminist YouTuber, illustrator, animator and writer that focuses on gender, sexuality, race and how they intersect.
-